Effective Theatres

Theatres are the engine room of a hospital. Continuously improving theatres means a continuously improving hospital. Focused improvement in theatres improves the patient experience, reduces incidents (and the risk of further incidents) and drives improvements in staff morale and team working.

THE “EFFECTIVE THEATRES” COMPELLING NEED

However well your theatres are performing, the Effective Theatres programme is designed to drive better performance across the following areas:

- Productivity and Capacity
- Patient Experience and Access
- Clinical Outcomes
- Staff Engagement
- Patient Safety and Risk.

It achieves this by focusing on three broad areas;

- Team Performance and Behaviours
- The Physical Environment
- Systems and Processes.

THE “EFFECTIVE THEATRES” OBJECTIVE

The objective of the Effective Theatres programme is to ensure that hospital theatres operate in an efficient and effective manner which delivers;

- Safer care
- A positive patient experience
- Excellent clinical outcomes
- Engaged staff
- Cost efficiencies
- Improved performance.

The programme delivers an Effective Theatres solution which is customised to your organisation’s activities, culture, systems, past experiences and the aspirations of all staff at all levels. In this way the sustainability of the solution is built so that benefits are maintained over the long term.

THE “EFFECTIVE THEATRES” PHILOSOPHY

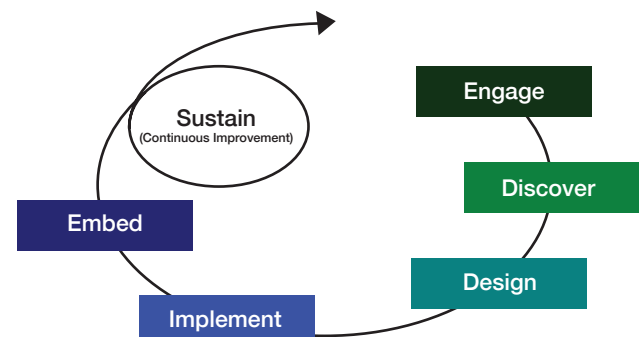

The Effective Theatres programme addresses the core drivers for the engine of the hospital, namely:

- Behaviours and practices of the theatre team
- The way in which the theatres are organised and run
- The theatre’s environment (facilities and equipment).
- The control and management of risks.

Healthcare systems interact in complex ways and the strength of the Effective Theatres programme is that it tackles the underlying issues which drive sustainable, safe and long-term improvements in performance.

THE “EFFECTIVE THEATRES” METHODOLOGY

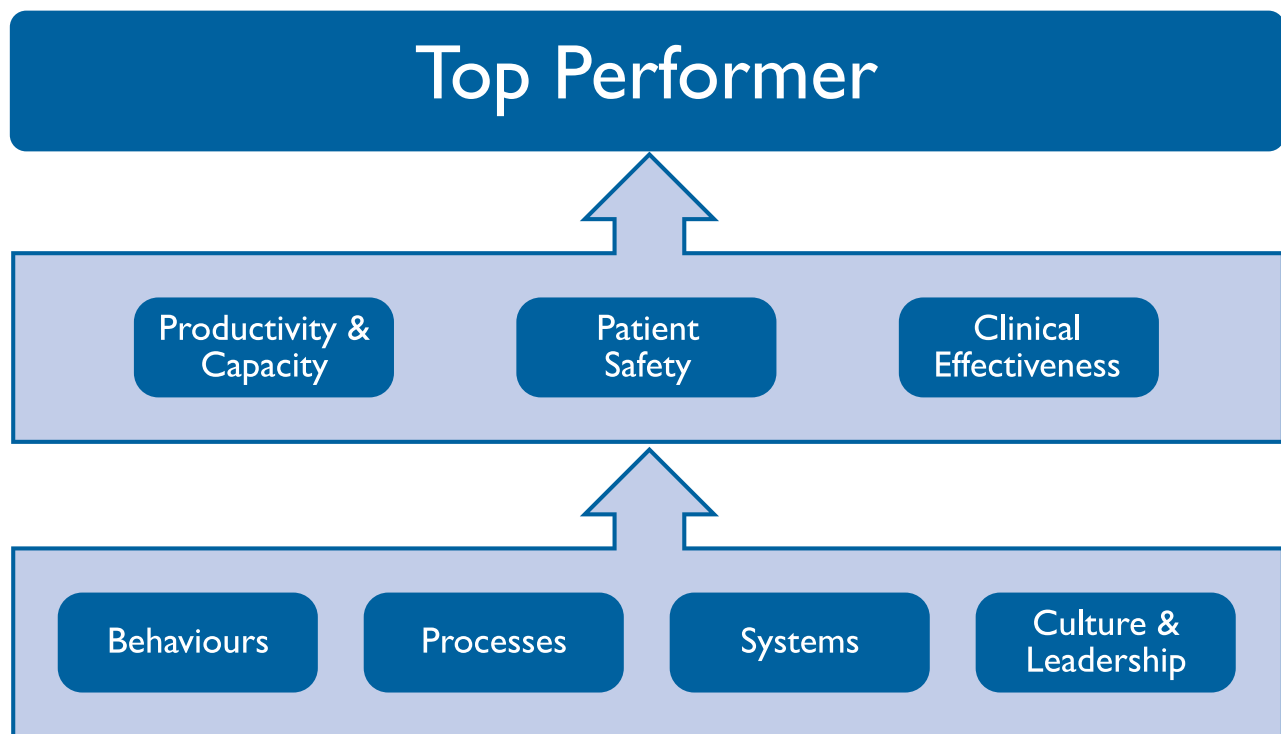

We customise our methodology to reflect each individual organisation based on an understanding of its aspirations, current situation, activities and culture.

Our approach is one of partnership and support which looks to transfer knowledge and skills so that the organisation and its staff carry forward the continuous improvement cycles.
